South Carolina Women ‘Go Experience’ Gospel, Partner With IMB

Rwanda? Kenya? No trip sounded right. So, Katie kept searching for the perfect short-term mission trip on the International Mission Board’s Go Experience website. Her women-only team from First Baptist Church, Honea Path, South Carolina, wanted a place where they could use their gifts and maybe look into a partnership.

After some prayer, Katie and co-leader, Jaclyn, opted for Rwanda but that’s when the phone rang. It was the IMB. A volunteer request that matched FBC Honea Path even better had come in but there was a catch. It was in the Middle East during Ramadan.

It took all of two seconds for the team of seven women to say “Yes.” “It didn’t matter where it was to us,” Katie explained. “This was the place God wanted us to go. The field workers needed an all-female team, used the same [gospel sharing] methods we trained on and use at our church and wanted to disciple local believers. The IMB couldn’t have matched us any better. We were all in.”

Being “all in” in the Middle East looked culturally different from in their small town in South Carolina. They left a community celebrating Easter and landed in a world observing Ramadan, when Muslims worldwide spend a month in fasting, prayer, and reflection. This meant restaurants and coffee shops were closed during the day to observe fast. In many places, it is against the law to eat or drink in public during Ramadan fasting times.
